

no mistakes in destiny

we have been led to believe,
that destiny is an unknown and uncertain future,
that is “meant to happen.”

but does the future really exist now,
other than in our minds?

if existence is trully infinite,
everything will eventually happen under the sun.

why do we then worry if something happens now or later?
all will eventually happen in all possible ways;
it is another thing to question if your current body will be there to perceive it.

regardless, your heart and mind can rest in the sole truth that, whatever effectively comes to happen in this life, is meant to be.

you will not know your destiny until it is effectively happening;
or in simpler words,
whatever effectively comes to happen,
was your destiny all along.

do you think that God allows things to happen that shouldn't be?
does the universe makes mistakes?
do you not see that it is already,
and will always be, perfect?

in this small vehicle we call humanity,
we do what we can,
and we take action with our hearts involved;

until our destiny is revealed.