

poison of revenge

who are you to proclaim justice upon the actions of others?

does your ego really believe it can be impartial in a naturally selfish vehicle?

can you not see, that the sun shines its light indiscriminately on all? even on your enemies.

and even if your enemies have misfortune coming to them, the poison of revenge is always heavier in the heart of the avenger, than that of the victim.

do not wish harm or self defined justice upon your enemies; do not wish them misfortune.

on both the sinner and the righteous,
the warmth of the sun shines upon their faces;
the songs of birds reach their ears;
and the love of God reaches their hearts.

even on those whom you may believe do not deserve it.
